Tragic Accident Costs Life Of Mrs. Bowser

Aurora—The entire community was shocked by the tragic death of Mrs. John W. Bowser, who was killed on South Yonge St. when struck by a car driven by 30-year-old Leonard Carnahan of Toronto late Saturday evening. Mrs. Bowser had been uptown, and had taken a leisurely stroll home to enjoy the fresh air. Mr. Bowser, who had offered to drive his wife home, was to meet her within a few moments of the accident.

Mrs. Bowser was walking off the road on the west side of Yonge St. and was within 50 feet of the entrance of their property when the accident occurred. According to witnesses and the police, Carnahan accompanied by five passengers was en route north, and he collided with another northerly bound vehicle driven by Chester Adams of Buffalo, N.Y. Careening off the Adams' car, the vehicle driven by Carnahan shot across the highway striking Mrs. Bowser and crashing into a hydro pole, demolishing it, and plunging the municipality into darkness. The passengers in the Carnahan car were taken to York County hospital for treatment and later released. Carnahan was admitted to bail, charged with motor manslaughter, and he appeared on Tuesday in Toronto before Magistrate O. M. Martin, being remanded to the Newmarket court on Friday, Sept. 17.

Mrs. Bowser, the former Adeline MacMillan, was in her 38th year and was born at Ripley. She had accompanied Mr. Bowser on his many giant building projects throughout the world, and while resident in the district had won a wide circle of friends with her quiet, friendly charm, and her interest in community affairs. She was active in Armistage Women's Institute, the ladies' section of Aurora Horse Show, and the United Church.

The funeral service, conducted by Rev. H. Howey, was held on Tuesday from P. M. Thompson's Funeral Home with interment at Aurora cemetery. Pallbearers were: Elton Armstrong, Stewart Patrick, John Browning, Earl Attridge, A. E. L. Maughan and Frank Bowser.

Surviving are Mr. Bowser, one son, John W. Bowser, Jr., and seven sisters, Mrs. N. A. Ray, Oshawa, Mrs. Sarah Noble, Miss Margaret MacMillan, Mrs. Alice Gibson and Mrs. A. McCleod, all of Detroit, Mich., and Mrs. J. Watson, Whitby, and one brother, Jack MacMillan.

Blame Eaves Damage To School On Birds

Newmarket—Repairs to the eaves of the Alexander Muir school are nearing completion with the contractor on the job being Arthur Foxcroft. It had first been thought that the damage had been caused by water but it appears that the birds were the culprits. Nests of many types have been found and the damage caused by the feathered criminals are quite extensive. Steel scaffolding brought from Toronto speeded the work on the building with all the rotted eaves being replaced and the nesting locations blocked off.

Lion Cage, Pickled Frogs, Bulls All Grist In Customs Mill

Newmarket—In spite of hundreds of new restrictions on imports into Canada in the last year, the revenue taken by the customs office in Newmarket for this district is high. At the end of August, revenue from import duty was $24,003.70 and from excise tax, $31,116.32. These figures are slightly lower than August of 1947.

Although there have been tremendous restrictions on goods, on Tuesday the office was only eight days behind in the number of transactions at the same time last year, according to customs officer Max Boag. Figures for the year ending March 21, 1948, show that total import duties were $388,683.80 and excise tax $382,151.23. The Newmarket office serves a district from Richmond Hill to Sault.

The long lists of import restrictions are a headache to remember, say customs officers Max Boag and Nelson Ion. Three types of schedules of prohibitions which include complete restrictions, those on quota or those on allotment, take up page after page in the pamphlets sent to the office. When anyone phones and asks about a certain article to import, the officers must recall if it is in those long lists of restrictions. Along with these lists of restrictions to remember are the continual amendments to rates.

Many irregular items pass through the Newmarket customs. On Tuesday a dog came through from Oklahoma. A few days ago a spaniel arrived from Scotland. The story behind the Scotch pup

FLIES TO U.K.

Newmarket—Horace J. Hiscox, manager of the branch here of the Dominion Bank, left this morning to fly to England where he will join his wife for three weeks' holidays. His relief is R. W. Fitzgerald from the head office.

was about a war bride who came to Canada and the dog she left behind who became lonesome so it was necessary to ship it across the Atlantic to its mistress.

Recently a bull came through to a new settler from Scotland. Pickled grasshoppers and frogs for a zoologist, bulls, cases of bees are a few of the oddities that have been checked off. There is a lion cage at the office now which so far has not been claimed.

One of the big jobs of the local customs officers is to examine the goods brought in by Dutch settlers in the Holland Marsh every time a ship brings them into Montreal. All their possessions and cases of goods are checked and the whole business requires an interpreter for the Dutchmen who cannot speak English.

The customs man is one about whom the public hears little. He must be versatile. In certain cases he is in the same capacity as an R.C.M.P. man for example when there is to be a seizure of illegal goods, or in war time, when there is an enemy alien to be identified. There are probably few in Newmarket who realize that the customs office here does so large a business.

Newmarket—A reduction in hydro-electric power of 20 percent must be undertaken here effective Sept. 14 when Newmarket's quota of power will be reduced by the provincial commission from 26,250 kilowatts daily to 21,250, according to the provincial commission secretary, E. B. Eason, in a letter to Newmarket commission last week.

Cause of the reduction is said the dry summer and fall which has depleted storage reservoirs on the Ottawa River, and generally reduced flow of water. Newmarket consumers will be asked to make the reduction voluntarily as before, but if it can not be achieved this way, power will be cut off until the saving is made. "We have no alternative," said chairman of the Newmarket commission, Fred S. Thompson.

Coupled with the notice of the reduction, the provincial hydro has limited the use of electric power for space and water heaters, as well as display and office lighting. An advertisement on Page 3 of this issue lists the restrictions in detail.

In a statement this week, Mr. Thompson, on behalf of the Newmarket commission, recalled last year's successful voluntary reduction and urged all citizens to co-operate as before. He said if the switches had to be pulled, there would be adequate warning and it would be done at a time most convenient to the largest number.

Plan To Invest Greenwood Fund In Canada Bonds

Newmarket—With an early return home of Allan Greenwood anticipated, the three temporary trustees, Mayor Jos. Vale, Clerk Wesley Brooks, and Editor John Meyer, have been discussing the disposition of the fund volunteered on his behalf by his friends. Tentative plans call for the purchase of Dominion of Canada bonds in the boy's name and the administration of the fund by the town clerk.

The Greenwood fund was initiated to insure the education of Allan Greenwood who lost his left foot in a mower accident early in the summer. Approximately 1,000 have contributed to the fund which is near the $1,600 mark. Since his accident, the boy has been in the Toronto General hospital where his recovery has been increasingly rapid. He is able to travel well on his crutches and a week has been mentioned as the deadline for his return to Newmarket.

School days! Carol Watson doesn't know whether she will eat the apple herself or give it to the teacher as she walks up the steps of the King George school on her first morning at school. ### Guy's First Day At School Something Not Easy Come By Newmarket — When you've heard nothing but "school, school, school" for the last two months, day in, day out, and when father and mother, friends and relatives keep telling you, "My, you're going to be a big boy now that you are starting school in September," you begin to think that this school business must be something. By the time the morning of the first day rolls around and everyone has pumped you full of enthusiasm and you walk up to the place before nine o'clock, well, by that time it gets to be a pretty imposing place.

Over at the King George on Tuesday morning, there were a lot of beginners who felt this way and some just couldn't figure out why they were reacting the way they did. For one little girl it was just too awe-inspiring so there was nothing else to do but sit down and have a good cry rather than try and figure it all out. Tears are simpler than a psycho-analysis.

Two young girls were peering around a fence down Park Ave. wondering if it were safe to approach the building. After a while they walked up the street on the lee side of an adult. On the other hand, there were the nonchalants who mingled in the crowds proving their confidence to others, consoling and wiping tears. Over at the boys' door two newcomers walked up the steps. "What will they do to us the first day?" said one. "Oh I'm not worried," the other scoffed.

Adding to confusion were the dogs. There were at least a dozen excited pooches running around the school yard. At 9:15 a few sad pups remained with drooping tails watching the doors.

Kindergarten was an entirely new topic on Tuesday morning. Mothers brought their five-year-olds for Newmarket's first kindergarten class but there were signs of utter disappointment on some youngsters' faces when they learned that they couldn't start until Friday, because of a shortage of chairs and tables. One girl who registered for kindergarten left in a sea of tears clutching mother with one hand and a pencil and notebook with the other. Another mother with her two, hurried home after the forgotten birth certificates.

One mother made a big mistake. After registering her boy for first day on Friday, she made her exit with son down the girls' steps! Facial expressions on the boy showed mixed emotions, indignation, shyness and humiliation. The mistake will never occur again.

A patient father waited outside the front door with a pup on a leash. "My wife is in there with our daughter," he said. "I've been waiting for an hour." He added. After another brief pause he concluded, "I think they have hired my wife as a teacher in there. I might as well go home." A child beside him was suddenly possessed with a great thought. "If I had only started when I was two I'd be in high school now."

The first day of school is something which a guy doesn't come by easily.

Aurora Scholarship Winners

Aurora—Ross Donovan, who scored ten firsts and one second in the upper school examinations, has been awarded a Reuben Wells Leonard scholarship at the University of Toronto. The scholarship has a total cash value of $1,200 over four years. In addition to the Leonard scholarship, Ross has been awarded the John Stuart scholarship at Aurora high school which, since Ross will attend Toronto Varsity this year, has a cash value of $100. In addition he will receive a gold statuette from Mr. Stuart. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. G. M. Donovan and was interested in debating and the Literary Society.

Mr. and Mrs. Earl Scott, Laskay, has been awarded a dominion-provincial scholarship valued at $400 and the First King Twp. scholarship at the University of Toronto. He will attend Victoria College. He scored seven firsts and two seconds. Ian, who was a member of the school basketball team and interested in cadet work, was also offered a bursary at University College.

Ranking behind Scott and awarded the Second King scholarship at the University of Toronto was Archie McCallum, son of Mr. and Mrs. M. McCallum, three seconds and a credit in the upper school exams. He will attend Victoria College.

Heavier Enrolment Expected At N.H.S.

Newmarket—Newmarket high school opened the fall term on Tuesday but the high school area which was formed towards the end of last May does not take effect until January 1, 1949. The area plan will not effect the enrolment at Newmarket until the fall of 1949 when it is likely that Sutton Grade XIII and some commercial option students will take classes here.

Principal J. W. Lockhart could not estimate the present enrolment this week as many students are finishing up summer jobs and have not enrolled but he expects an enrolment larger than last year.

The municipalities included in the school area will be Newmarket, Sutton, East and North Gwillimbury, Whitechurch and Georgina twps. and Mount Albert which has been sending its students to Newmarket since the beginning of last school year. The new school board for the area will be made up of two representatives from Newmarket, two from Whitechurch, one each from Sutton, East Gwillimbury, North Gwillimbury, Georgina and York county. Additional representatives are one from the largest school board, Newmarket, one from a separate school and possibly an additional two from the county.

Shortly before the area was formed by the municipalities, a committee from the Newmarket board went to the department of education and was advised to form the area first and then find the accommodation it required. The committee also found that the cost of increased accommodation suitable for Newmarket would be around $104,000.

Arrange V.O.N. Services For Aurora Schools

Aurora—The Board of Health has entered into an agreement with the Aurora Victorian Order board whereby the V.O.N. services will be provided for pupils at Aurora public school. The health plan will cost the municipality $50 a month in addition to the $600 annually paid. The board has appointed Dr. G. W. Williams as school doctor at $25 a month. Dr. Williams will look after all clinics, toxoiding, inspections, etc. This is in addition to Dr. Williams' salary of $275 a year as medical officer of health.

NAMED LEGION DEPUTY

Newmarket—Howard Morton was elected deputy zone commander of Zone E2, Canadian Legion, at the September zone council meeting at Aurora last week. Zone commander H. A. Phelps announced he would be a candidate for the office of district commander at the district meeting to be held in Bracebridge on September 26.

COMPLAIN OF MOTORBIKES

Aurora—Irritated by the noise of motorcyclists, many Aurora residents have complained to council, and the Aurora police commission has issued a strict warning to motorcyclists that the provisions of the Ontario Highway Traffic Act, governing such vehicles will be enforced. Aurora police have also been instructed to take such action as may be necessary to curb the present situation.

At the Veterans' Land Act site there is increasing activity as 13 homes are either completed or under construction in addition to the eight built by the government.

It would seem that some town expansion is bound to take place since the natural growth of the town has been held up for so long. New industries have come to Newmarket in the last five years and it is doubtful that all new employees have found accommodation suitable to their satisfaction and means.

New expansion will have to be made outside the town limits. One reactor in town expressed the opinion that the most logical direction for the town to expand is to the west toward Yonge St., eventually taking in the large block between Eagle and Davis Dr. and Yonge St. and the town limits.

Natural land features allow desirable building conditions along westward continuations of Millard Ave., Botsford St., Park Ave., and Timothy St. with a jog at Lorne Ave. With the new housing project along Eagle St. and other buildings now going up, there is evidence that Eagle St. will soon be developed. If Davis Dr. to the west of town were paved out to the new Barrie highway, it is possible that it would become more popular for building sites.

At the north-east corner of the town Newmarket-Rosedale subdivision, owned by C. F. Willis, has 30 lots with 50 feet of frontage available on Lundy Ave. and Bolton Ave. as well as an additional 12 lots which have been sold. The streets are graded and gravelled and negotiations to ensure an adequate water supply are nearing successful conclusion. Mr. Willis says. Hydro is already available.

New Water Supply

A factor that might contribute further building expansion to the north-east corner of town is the possibility of new wells east of Hamilton's corners. Operations were recently abandoned in drilling for water in the area when an insufficient supply was found after going down 300 feet. Well drilling equipment has been moved, however, one mile farther out from the former site of operations, according to Reeve Arthur D. Evans. In the event that a major water supply were found at that high level, it is possible that water service could be provided in the north sections of town more easily than from the present services.

Newmarket Growth Threatens To Burst Seams

Newmarket—Will Newmarket see a large physical growth in the next few years? That is one question which many citizens wonder about, especially when they see encouraging symptoms of growth at the site of the project for 50 new houses on Eagle St. In what direction and where could further expansion be made, now that the incorporated areas have almost been filled? That is another question.

For years, residential building has been restricted by high costs and shortages of lumber and materials with the result that there is a heavy backlog of potential home builders. Now house building has started up again, and in many cases, citizens have built their homes themselves to offset the high costs of labor. The most desirable lots within the town have subsequently been taken up.

One site for a possible subdivision is across from the Stuart Scott school grounds and at the corner of Eagle St. and Lorne Ave.

Edwards Property

Another possibility for development as a residential section is the property of Dr. J. C. R. Edwards on the south side of Gorham St. Dr. Edwards has some nine or ten acres, already divided into lots, plus five acres which he is reserving for his own use. He says he will open it if there is sufficient demand. "I don't want to open it for one house but for a good proportion of the lots were taken at one time and houses built, so as to constitute a community, I would reconsider," he said.

BUSINESS

How often you hear people tell about someone getting "a lucky break"! It does not seem to occur to them that often what we call good fortune is the result of intelligent planning.

Astute men do not just sit back and wait for opportunities. They improve their skills, and learn more and more about their field of work, thus paving the way for opportunities.

Some years ago a certain cellist in a noted symphony orchestra paved the way for his great opportunity by memorizing the complete score of an opera. When the orchestra's regular conductor was suddenly stricken with illness, the cellist led the performance with brilliant success. Today he is world famous!

Thousands of cases could be quoted to illustrate how men have improved their fortunes by being prepared when opportunity knocked.

So why not plan now to put a knocker on your door?

No one should rely on lucky breaks to provide a retirement income and financial protection for their family. These things can be planned now on the basis of your present income, through life insurance. Then you will be sure of your future.

HERE'S WHERE WE STAND ON NEW-CAR SELLING

General Motors Dealers' "Foursquare Selling Policy" assures you a Fair Deal when you buy a new car

Let's bring this subject right out in the open.

Many conditions still exist which encourage the "gray marketing" of automobiles.

You don't like this — and neither do we.

There's no law against "under the counter" deals — demanding a bonus for early delivery.

There's no law against loading cars with accessories the customer doesn't want or need.

There's no law against selling to buyers who make it their business to resell new cars at inflated prices.

But we don't do it because it's not good business.

All dealers buy cars at clearly established factory prices which with the exception of transportation, are the same, model for model, all over the country. All start on a fair and equal basis — and should therefore sell at these fair and reasonable delivered prices.

So we're making public announcement of our code of fair dealing.

Our foursquare selling policy, simply stated, is this:

1 NO PADDING OF PRICES

We guarantee our delivered prices to conform with the manufacturer's recommendation and to contain nothing but standard charges which, of course, include Sales and Excise Taxes. You receive an itemized bill of sale. All prices are an "Open Book" — they are available to you and we sell at these listed figures.

2 NO LOADING OF UNWANTED ACCESSORIES

All cars are offered with factory-installed accessories only and prices are figured to cover these. We pledge ourselves to add no "extras" except those each customer orders — and to avoid using "extras" to increase the delivered price.

We wish to express our sincere appreciation to our loyal customers and friends for their patience in awaiting their turn for delivery of new General Motors cars.

Although the popularity of General Motors cars is unprecedented, and the supply is lagging far behind the demand, we are doing our utmost to be fair and equitable in their distribution.

3 TRADE-INS DESIRED — BUT NOT COMPULSORY

We will take your order for future delivery, without requiring a trade-in. However, we have many valued used-car customers who also depend upon us to supply them with automobiles. For this reason we would like to have your trade-in, and we'll give you a fair and reasonable allowance for it.

4 NO COLLUSION

While we cannot prevent our customers from reselling new cars, we will not knowingly be a party to such transactions. Our only interest is to deliver new cars to bona fide customers.

We present this platform because we believe it's good business to keep our customers informed.

It's a platform that gives you a fair deal when you buy a new car — exactly the same kind of a deal and treatment you got before the war.

If you wish additional information, it will gladly be supplied by any dealer whose name is signed to this announcement.

LOCAL DELIVERED PRICES

of Canadian produced General Motors Cars including Standard Factory Equipment, five new type low-pressure tires and Dominion Sales and Excise Taxes, but not including License Fee or Provincial and Municipal Taxes where these apply.

With him at the time, were Evelyn Burns, Wildfield, and Eddie Wilkie, Lloydtown. The two men went into the river and,
according to Miss Burns, Shear-downe disappeared when he stepped off a ledge. Wilkie, also a non-swimmer, went in after him and started to slip but was pulled out by Miss Burns.

After searching in vain with a flashlight, they called for help
and Robert Renwick, Port Credit, located the body 20 minutes after Sheardowne had disappeared.

Sheardowne was born near Lloydtown and lived at home
with his father, Fred Shear-downe, at Schomberg. He attended Lloydtown public school
and was a member of the Schomberg Presbyterian church.

He is survived by his parents
and three brothers, Clarence,

there would have been a double drowning if he had not been pulled out by Miss Burns as he was getting beyond his depth.

More About Smokey

By GOLDEN GLOW

To answer the many kind inquiries about my big silver gray puss, I think I had better make this column responsible for a report on the subject. I say "my"
cat. I say it advisedly because it is now over ten years since the poor old battered chap "adopted"
me, and surely if he belonged to anyone he would either have gone home or been claimed long since. He's a nice old thing really, but I must say he'd not stand the ghost of a chance in a beauty contest. His fur is thin over one eye, and a chunk as big as a 50-cent piece is without fur entirely behind one ear. He is getting a new fur coat for winter, but so far it extends only below his shoulders, and the rest is a peculiar rusty color. So he is called "Rusty" most of the time instead of Smokey.

He has such a variety of names but he doesn't answer to any of them so it doesn't matter.
I taught him to come when I whistled. A little five-year-old comes to see me every day and I have to have a new name ready for the cat for it has become a game, since his first question is sure to be "What will we call Smokey today?" One day I said,
"Well, let's see—he's just had some salmon, so let's call him Restigouche." The answer came so clear and definite: "But I can't say Restigouche," and he actually didn't know he'd said
it.

However Old Puss has had a score of names since then but the small boy still says "What will we call Smokey today?" I assure you it keeps me busy thinking up new names. The small boy has a big yellow fellow, with wonderful topaz eyes, but Smokey puts on a show every day and his cat doesn't. Honestly you'd think the old cat knew what I say to him, but of course he couldn't. All he's after is a feed of liver and until he gets it, he is so affectionate, so full of pop and activity. He rolls over and back—not because I tell him to—but because that's what he always does, and the small boy thinks Smokey is something extra special and often brings Baby Brother to see the cat go through his tricks.

"Wash Your Ear"
When he rolls over, I say,
"Now, Smokey, wash your ear,"
and up goes his paw, and he rubs his ear several times—all the time looking at me for approval.
As soon as he has his portion of liver the show is over, so I quite often let the little chappies have their fun with him before he gets fed. He has been splendid with them, he has never once gone away and refused to put on his show, never once nipped or showed his claws—and you know cats can object strenuously
if they don't like their treatment.
He has even chased a crumpled
piece of paper, tied to a string,
for their benefit as if he were a kitten again. So you see why I willingly give old silver gray
puss a home and loving care.

The two small boys think it great when I draw out a kitchen chair, and pat it, saying "come on, Smokey," and up jumps Smokey and I brush his coat with his special brush, and Smokey purrs and purrs, and bumps his head against us and makes a tremendous fuss. In another month he'll be the handsomest cat on our street, for when he gets his new fur coat
he really is good-looking, and you'd think he knew it, too, for he goes and sits on the top step of the verandah at the front and I bet he hears folks comment on his handsome appearance for he does look so smug.

No other cat, or dog either,
dares put foot on our premises
if old Smokey is around, and is he jealous? Four or five of us were talking in our garden near the east verandah the other day.
The neighbor's puppy dog came over to be petted. I leaned over when he came over to me and patted him, the same as the

Editor Visits Sharon Institute

We borrowed a few hours from the business of preparing four pages for the press last Wednesday afternoon to answer an invitation from the Sharon branch of the Women's Institute to speak at their meeting. We thoroughly enjoyed the opportunity, even if it was at the expense of the patience of the women who sat through our remarks. Most of those present we had met at the office and it was a real pleasure to see them again. The meeting was held at the home of Mrs. Levi Weddel, chairman of the historical research committee, under whose auspices the meeting was held. The roll-call, fittingly enough, was to name a pioneer who had contributed to the community. Our share of the program was to speak on historical research.

The occasion was doubly welcome for it has long been our conviction that if York county is ever to have a complete record of its history—not in the sense of names and dates, but in the knowledge of the kind of people who settled here, their hopes and their accomplishments, their disappointments and failures—if ever this human record is to be completed, it will be through the efforts of the Institute branches.

Historians Have Their Books

The historians have at their disposal huge research volumes which will give them names, events and dates, trends, causes and results—but there is very little in these volumes that will tell about the people who made history. The human quality is all too lacking and without that quality, history becomes a mere ## recital of events.

Members of the Institutes, in this district at any rate, are in a position to tell of those human qualities. Many of them live on farms which have been in their families since the time of the original grant. They have heard the recollections of their grandparents, who in turn have passed on the legends and traditions that they learned from preceding generations.

In their Bibles, whole family histories are recorded. The homes they live in, the land they farm, are alive with associations with the past. Their very environment has witnessed the stirring events which were part of the founding of Canada. They remember the old landmarks which are rapidly disappearing before the physical changes of the last quarter century of progress.

Why Important

And why is this human element so important. Because it is from it that we derive our inspirations. It is the source of our traditions with their precepts for the future. Names and dates are important, but a living history which can direct us in the future is created from the individual patterns of the lives of those who preceded us.

Yet this hereditary knowledge will pass in the years to come unless some means is taken now to record it. That is the task that the Institute has undertaken through its Tweedsmuir Book and an arduous task it is. We had some idea of what was involved in a glance through the Sharon Tweedsmuir Book where, with the history of the Sharon branch, there was a painstaking record of the Children of Peace cemetery which two members had made, histories of individual farms, notes on the changes which have taken place in Sharon through the years, notes on the history of the Children of Peace.

The Institute gave us permission to draw for our own information from their Tweedsmuir Book, and it is our hope that in the weeks to come, we may make good use of it in maintaining our history corner on the other side of this page. In the meantime, we offer our congratulations to the Sharon branch, and to all other branches who are engaged in this work of recording the human aspects of the history of this county, as well as the major events and changes which have taken place in its century and half of growth.

Ginger Ends Feud With Underwood

I have been having troubles with this typewriting machine, boss. I don't suppose anybody ever thinks, while reading this column every week, how long it takes me to type it out. Picture a harassed cat with two unco-ordinated front paws searching out letters while hind legs are jumping up and down on the space bar. More like a kangaroo I am when I mount this faithful old Underwood. When I want to make a capital letter I have to do a side kick like one would do in a conga dance with a hind foot flung aside in order to use the shift key. Think of the effort that's saved when I don't hafta use this shift key it is much easier this way I think come boss come it would be much easier and faster if I didn't bother with punctuation or capital letters it will save wear and tear and increase my life expectancy.

oh it is not all peaches and cream to be fur bearing with four legs and a tail and have the intelligence of a human me thinks sometimes I would be better off to have an intelligence quotient relative to my primitive physical mechanism drat this typewriter exclamation point have the same urges for instance I have the same urges as most humans for the bright lights the gay entertainment spots the vie de boheme but they are not for a shabby old tabby like me once I went to the club norman and a bouncer shouted seat at me when I entered the front door I was forced to confine my presence under a table but the floor show was good at that angle what humiliation though for a great mind like mine to be cooped up in a cats body exclamation point give me the soul of a cat or the body of a man I say

i guess i shall have to be content to stay out of human social activity and project my self expression through other media thrashing this typewriter is about the only way i can release my soul

nine times it galls me

when i think that i may have to die nine times it galls me to you know cats have nine lives and i havent the slightest idea which one im going through now its a pretty boring routine to say the least i hope they reincarnate me into a more versatile physical form next time after i complete my ninth circuit a monkey or a baboon would suit me at least i would have less trouble operating this letter making machine

horace the horse fly landed on the window sill in the composing room the other day he has the transmigrated soul of a bad printer who passed on in the last century according to horace he was once a printer at the era but was fired in those days there were no linotypes and each letter was set by hand horace was fired for dropping his ps and qs which brings to mind the old expression mind your ps and qs but which kuster the printer says did not originate in the printing shops according to kuster the expression was originated in the old taverns when customers reminded the waiters to mind their pints and quarts i am joyful to think that i am closeted in the body of a cat and not a horse fly its too risky existing in such a flimsy state horace said he once flew in front of an electric fan and almost got splattered to death against a wall

horace is a carefree bum he says he is just as glad he was transmigrated into an insect's body all he has to do for a nice dinner he says is to find a horse and there he has a fine rump roast on the hoof no worries or rent to pay just roam the world biting horses rumps a horse fly's life is the life for me he says

if i were a human reading this i would not laugh self complacently at horace the horse fly the level of insect life is known to have been attained by many a human being exclamation point

Around the North End of the County

Whitchurch Nears 150th Birthday

In two years, the township of Whitchurch will reach its 150th birthday. The township was laid out by surveyor Stegman in 1800. The name Whitchurch is probably taken from a town in Herefordshire, England. While township officers were appointed as early as 1825 it was later that a municipal council was formed. In 1838, records show that no township meeting was held by order of the Justice of the Peace because of the rebellion. The expenditures in those days were recorded in pounds, shillings and pence. In 1878 there were 701 land owners in the township and 373 tenants, 45 farmers' sons and two people in the township that had sufficient wealth to pay income tax.

Ontario's chief heat wave victims the other week were the mink, who are creatures of the snow and glory in zero temperatures. Several mink owners in Markham lost some of their animals. Walter Byer said they gave their mink close attention otherwise the loss would have been serious. Fresh water every hour was supplied to all the pens, he said. The average pelt is worth $40. So far none of Ontario's nine sapphire mink worth between $8,000 and $10,000 each and used as breeding stock have died from the heat.

Public School Expansion

The Newmarket public school system is feeling the impact of the post-war expansion of Newmarket. All available classroom space has been utilized this year and at that, age limits for starting pupils have been restricted. The opportunity class, an innovation intended to assist pupils having difficulties with one or more subjects, has had to be sacrificed to give more regular classroom space.

The school board last year anticipated this strain on classroom space and last May, took its proposals for a new school to the council. While there was nothing definite decided as to procedure and cost, council did undertake to get an option on land in the camp area which had been chosen by the board as a site for a fourth public school. As near as can be ascertained, no formal option has been taken out. Until that is done, the school board is unable to move with any certainty in planning for the new school.

The cost of a new school is not one to be accepted lightly. The increase in costs in the last two years is an adequate argument against any building. A plain school building with six classrooms will cost $140,000. Even with a provincial grant of up to 50 percent, the remaining $70,000 is a sizeable amount to pay in view of other municipal requirements.

Yet it is equally obvious that a new school must be had. A department of education expert, after reviewing the birth rate and other pertinent data, estimates that the school population in 1952 will be 200 more than its present peak. To delay the building of a new school means that there will be a growing number of children who will be denied their right of elementary schooling in reasonably comfortable accommodation.

Vulnerable Position

Newmarket derives much business from transient trade in the summer. One merchant estimated that 60 percent of his sales in one week had been to summer travellers. Summer trade means a lot to Main St. business, but it is questionable how long that trade can be maintained. Newmarket has it because the main route to south and east shores of Lake Simcoe goes up Main St. but Main St. is so narrow, so completely inadequate to handle the volume of traffic forced through it, that it is natural to expect future highway developments to by-pass the town completely. Newmarket will then have lost its commanding role.

Indications that this day is not far away are obvious in the development of the third and fourth of East Gwillimbury as an alternate route to the lake, and in the possibility of paving the townline as a connecting link with the Barrie highway and the third concession. The former by-passes the town completely, and the latter misses the business section of the town. There is always a possibility of a third route, one which will not only miss the town but bridge the C.N.R. tracks. Newmarket can circumvent much of the distress which might follow these developments by the provision of adequate, well advertised parking facilities, and a traffic-free Main St. and by developing alternate truck lanes off Main St. for delivery to Main St. stores.

If there is a tendency to under-estimate the effect of by-passing highways, it is worth remembering that Bogartown in the middle of the last century was larger than Newmarket, but Newmarket got the railway and Bogartown declined as Newmarket advanced. If Newmarket loses its position on main through highways, it will also lose much of its summer business, a loss which will be reflected in all its activities.

The Newmarket Citizens' Band was fourth in competition with city and military bands at the Canadian National Exhibition, an excellent showing and a justification of the faith of those who assisted in financing their appearance.

With the end of the summer comes the "Ex", the opening of school and the first hydro "cuts".

A "flying" trip to England for vacations is becoming commonplace. Europe is no farther in point of time than many a journey by train to vacationland.

Talk of butter shortages strikes an echo from the past. In the files of 50 years ago, we read that "butter is a scarce article this week. Not a store in town had a pound to sell at noon last Wednesday".

'Samplers' Have Romantic History

By Ethel Willson Trehwella

In her charming way Ella Shannon Bowles has echoed the sentimental appeal that emanates from those lovely hand-wrought treasures upon which the years have left their mellow lustre, in her remark, 'a bit of old fence and woodland, a house and trees like those seen in old samplers.'

Old samplers! Reminiscently traditional of days when needlework was the favorite past-time of queens, those rectangular pieces of ancient canvas reflect in their muted colors and carefully laid stitches histories unconsciously recorded of the environment and era in which they had their being. Back in the middle ages royalty itself had contributed an important quota of devotees to the craft of the needle—the Spanish Catharine of Aragon and the ladies of her court, Queen Elizabeth, Catharine de Medici, and the unfortunate Mary, Queen of Scots who found diversion from the long hours of imprisonment by her interest in the needle. After more than a century an active revival of great grandmother's sampler is taking place, which, intrigued by the enthusiasm of collectors, is discovering many charming pieces of this ancient domestic art.

With this return of interest one naturally wonders where and why and how they came to be. The word itself, sampler, comes from the Latin 'exemplar,' through the old French 'esemplaire,' a pattern to be copied as a means of teaching the stitches, and as an example of skill in needlework. They were sometimes known as 'saumplaie,' 'sam - cloth,' and though for a time they had considerable vogue on the continent and later in the American colonies, their real home was in England.

Earliest Reference
The earliest known reference to 'samplers' previous to the Elizabethan period is found in the 'inventory of the household of Queen Elizabeth of York for 1502 where 'an elne of lynnyn cloth for a sampler for the queen' is mentioned, and in 1552 King Edward the Sixth had twelve samplers, a sampler of Normandie canvas wrought with green and black silk, of parchment contain patterns.' In Laid Cus's book on Emb sampler is mentioned VIII, but only a rough notion can be found. A sampler known to be hence is dated 1643 an Victoria and Alber South: Kensington. A dated sampler known man origin, 1618.

Tells History Of Landing Anchor

Rev. R. S. Ferguson, rector of Christ church, Holland Landing, in an article in The Era and Express of 25 years ago, urges all people interested in Canadian history to visit the anchor in Holland Landing park, the ponderous relic of the days when the valiant people of Canada and the British soldiers joined hands to repel the American invaders in 1812. The anchor measuring 16 feet in length and weighing 4,001 lbs., was forged in Chatham, England, and sent to York (Toronto) by bateau. At Toronto the anchor was put on sleighs and taken up Yonge St. to the Landing for shipment to Penetanguishene, where it was to be part of the equipment of the man-of-war just being built for service on Lake Huron against the Americans. Peace was declared just as the teamsters reached Holland Landing so they dumped off the anchor and it was never removed.

BEACH PROTECTION

The Editor: In order that a wrong impression may not get about following your editorial last week about the unfortunate drowning at Jackson's Point park, I wish to say through your paper that this young man was not observed by any person to be in distress, nor was he missed for perhaps an hour after the seizure which took him under. Obviously then, a ton of equipment would not have prevented this happening.

There is available at all times ropes and floats sufficient for this area, also an inhalator kept in proper working condition for the use of all the surrounding community. The police, doctors and hydro staff all know that it is available and kept at the Grew Boat Works adjoining the park property.

We employ full time through the tourist season a sports director and swimming instructor who is schooled in the use of it and other life-saving measures. Along with a number of expert boatmen, swimmers and divers always mingled with the crowd or nearby, we feel that few other Lake Simcoe beaches are as well supervised and as safe for the visiting public as ours. Thanking you for this space. Grover M. Morrison, reeve, Sutton.

Editor's Note: The fact remains that drags had to be made before work of recovering the bodies in each of two drownings off the south shore could be undertaken.

ANY INFORMATION?

The Editor: In view of the interest in local history taken by your readers, I would like to know whether anyone knows anything about a "compiled book" which was to be published according to the will of Samuel Hughes, who lived on the east side of Yonge St., where Mrs. William Heacock now lives. Samuel Hughes came to Yonge St. with his father, Job Hughes, in 1804, from Pennsylvania. He died on December 10, 1856, and was buried in the Hicksite burying ground.

The will of Samuel Hughes provided that after his wife's death, his executors, Joel Hughes, James Armitage and John Phillips, were to publish two books. One thousand copies were to be printed of a book entitled "The Economy of Human Life" for the use of children. This book was reprinted in Aurora in 1866 and the title page states that it was republished for gratuitous distribution by direction of the will of the late Samuel Hughes. The introduction states that the manuscript was obtained by an English traveller in Tibet about 1749, and that it was translated from an Indian manuscript written by an ancient Bramin.

The will of Samuel Hughes provides also for the publication of 500 copies of a "compiled book" prepared from the New Testament for the use of children, and also a variety of manuscripts written by him. If anyone knows whether this book was published, would they kindly advise Mrs. John Trewhella, Box 555, Newmarket, or the writer.

Yours truly,
A. David McCall.

Toronto.

ROAD CONDITIONS

The Editor: I wish to sincerely thank our Road and Bridge committee for the completion of the oiling project during the week of June 21. Unless one is obliged to live in a district where oiling is very necessary each year, the importance of this work may not be fully appreciated. I speak particularly of Second St. which is used extensively by Toronto traffic in avoiding the Yonge St. congestion, especially on the weekends. We also have in our locality a large boys' college which adds greatly to this traffic condition.

At the completion of the sewerage system during the summer of 1946, there was a heavy coating of surplus clay left on the road bed. The spring of 1947 saw our dust nuisance commencing by the middle of May, and after complaining several times of this condition the road was finally given one application of oil to take care of the extra clay left from the sewerage system. Not more than three days later men were observed applying gravel on this same street. Before many weeks had passed conditions became such that a second application was necessary to end this dust grievance.

After June 1, 1948, it was advisable to keep closed all windows and doors opening onto Second St., not a very healthy practice where there are small children in the home. I personally contacted members of our committee on June 11 and was informed operations were in progress. Thus we live and hope. A few days later information was forthcoming that adverse conditions had been met, still days later this condition had not been rectified.

Regardless of the part we play on the stage of life, adversities must be met and dealt with. I think the same procedure applies to our Road and Bridge committee. It is by the vote of the tax-payer these men attain office, and as this above project is a yearly one, I do feel that a little planning and foresight should see this oiling project completed not later than June 1 each year. Rest assured sincere thanks and appreciation would be extended to all persons responsible.

Margaret Smith.

'SAMPLERS'

"Fine fern-stitch, finny-stitch, new stitch and chain-stitch, brave bread-stitch, fisher-stitch, Irish-stitch and Queen-stitch, the Spanish-stitch, Rosemary-stitch and mouse-stitch, the smarting whip-stitch, back-stitch and crosse-stitch. All these are good, and these we must allow, And these are everywhere in practice now."

In the early days of the sampler, books were not in general use, hence the sampler formed a literature of its own. Frequently the worker of the sampler was not the designer, the design to be embroidered being drawn by a more skilled person. Sometimes these requests were difficult and tediously exacting, especially where heraldic rules had to be observed. Clever artists quickly seized advantage of this and built a thriving business by publishing books of embroidery patterns and offering to teach the purchaser how to embroider them. But these books were expensive and poorer folk could not afford them, hence the necessity of creating their own designs from local color. The result frequently was a distinctive, original treatment, and varied as the personality.

"Flowers, plants, and fishes, Beasts, birds, flies and bees, Hills, dales, plains, pastures, Skies, seas, rivers, trees, There's nothing ne'er at hand or farthest sought But with a needle may be wrought."

This quotation is from an old volume, The Needle's Excellency, published in 1640, and which is now in the British Museum Library, and provides some measure of understanding of the extent to which this needlework was employed.

COUPLE WED IN MT. ALBERT CHURCH

A pretty wedding took place in Mount Albert United church on September 4 at 4 p.m. when Helen Oliver was united in marriage to Lloyd Robertson. Rev. R. S. Shapler officiated. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Oliver, and the groom, the son of Mr. and Mrs. N. S. Robertson, all of Mount Albert.

The bride entered the church which was beautifully decorated with baskets of flowers, on the arm of her father, who gave her away, to the strains of Lohengrin's wedding march, played by Mrs. W. Cooper. She was wearing a gown of ivory satin, fashioned with a yoke of embroidered sheer and a long tulle veil arranged to a halo of ivory satin trimmed with lace. She carried a cascade of red roses.

Her sister, Mrs. V. Armstrong, attended as matron of honor, wearing a long pale blue, bengaline dress with matching head-dress and elbow-length lace gloves, and carried pink roses. Kathleen Oliver, youngest sister of the bride, acted as bridesmaid dressed in a long gown of pink taffeta with matching head-dress and short net gloves, and carried a nosegay of pink roses.

The groom was assisted by his brother Howard of Meaford. The ushers were John Oliver and Bruce Robertson, brother of the bride and groom. During the signing of the register, Mrs. D. Stiver sang "Because."

The bridal party received in the basement of the church, the bride's mother wearing a dress of grey crepe with maroon hat and gloves, and a corsage of red roses. The groom's mother had chosen a dress of fuchsia crepe with black hat and gloves and a corsage of yellow roses.

After the reception, the bride and groom left for southern points. For travelling the bride donned a grey gabardine suit with black accessories, raspberry wool topcoat, and a corsage of red roses. The groom's gift to the bride was travelling bags. On their return they will reside in Toronto.

The Common Bond...

By Isabel Inglis Colville

A SEPTEMBER WEDDING

There are many things which make a wedding interesting, the beauty of the bride, the thought of a new home coming into being, the gaining of a son or daughter by the participants'
parents—and when the onlooker has a very deep affection for one of the bridal couple, or both—there is a deep well of emotion to draw upon. On Saturday evening, in Trinity United church, Newmarket, where my husband and I watched Audrey Frances Hunt come down the aisle on her father's arm, we saw many pictures besides the exquisite one before our eyes.

We saw Audrey at the age of seven, arrayed in a Kate Greenaway costume, on the stage of Aurora's Hall and singing, "If no one ever marries me," and Audrey had the same golden hair and big earnest eyes then as

now. We saw her, still a small child, with her hair flying, riding a very large and, to me, stubborn-looking horse, as she tore down our yard to competently stable her steed and then, taking her triangle in hand, join the children's orchestra. Then we looked again at the bride in her white satin, embroidered veil with Mary Stuart halo, and cascade bouquet of red roses and gladioli, and there were tears in both our eyes as we said together, "Isn't she adorable?"

I've mentioned the bride first,
now we'll retrace our steps.
The church with its candle-lit arches and its baskets of glorious gladioli made a beautiful setting for an autumn wedding. As we waited, Mr. Fowler playing softly, Miss Zita Munroe rose and sang "The Lord's Prayer." Then the smiling groom, John George Teasdale, and his brother as his best man, and Rev. H. Cotton, the celebrant, made their appearance, and to the strains of the bridal march, the ushers,
Gordon Hunt and Howard

Lyttle, led the wedding procession of Margaret Teasdale, maid of honor, in a blue satin period gown, the bridesmaid, Greta Johnston in gold, and Shirley Hare in fuchsia, all with matching headresses and carrying charming nosegays, followed by the bride.

When the brief and solemn ceremony was over and while bride and groom signed the register, Miss Munroe sang "Because" very sweetly. A reception followed at Lea Crest Acres, the home of the bride's parents.

The bride's mother received in dove grey sheer and lace with matching accessories and corsage of gladioli. The groom's mother wore wine satin with matching accessories and corsage. About 150 guests gathered on the spacious lawn with its glimpse of the new moon through the green lace of the trees and there partook of the delicious repast
which seemed even more delicious when one ate surrounded by friends and nature's loveliness.

For going away, Audrey chose a cherry red gabardine ensemble. By one of those strange mishaps which sometimes befalls
departing couples, this particular pair left in separate cars, but were soon happily reunited, to live, as the fairy tales always end, "happily everafter."

Diamond dust: New market Lions swing out for action against Collingwood midgets next. They go up north Saturday afternoon and the return engagement is likely to be up for decision a week Saturday. That protest levelled at the locals by the Weston club over a technicality has been withdrawn after the Newmarket club officials talked it over with Weston. Just another hipity hop along the play-off grind. Tuesday the Lions were advised to contact Cobourg for their next opposition. Cobourg decided to hang up their baseball shoes for this year. That brought it down to meeting Collingwood.

Left in the running for the O.B.A. midget crown are seven

PLAN TOURNAMENT

Aurora Tennis club is holding a tournament for men's and ladies' doubles at the Aurora club on Friday, Sept. 11, and Saturday, Sept. 12. The entry fee is $1 and anyone is welcome to play.

teams. Wallaceburg meeting Goderich, Langton meeting Fort Erie, Prescott the eastern representatives and Newmarket and Collingwood. The week should see the teams whittled down to five or less. Coach Bill Haskett is looking for a tough series with Collingwood. Let's throw our support behind our up and coming laddies.

Ladies' softball: Cobourg "Pavilions", who recently ousted our own ladies' softball nine, carried on in the next round against Midland. Cobourg ousted our northern neighbors after three games. "The Pavs" won at home handily something like 20-2. At Midland the going was plenty tough as the homesters edged them out 8-7 over 10 frames. Cobourg came back in the nightcap to take the decider 10-8.

Newmarket ladies reached the Barrie and district finals with a neat 2-1 win at the S.S. grounds Tuesday night. They now await the winners of Midland-Valley's series. Valley's surprised the Georgian Bay ladies in the first game with a 6-4 triumph. The second game was due Tuesday evening.

Stops and starts along the sport trail: Vets celebrated their winning the crown Monday evening. It was their third in a row. It was a more or less farewell party for their ace moundsman, Bill "Joint" McComb who heads for the hockey wars at the tail end of this week. Skipper Courtney will have to finish out the season without Edith "Sammy" Dow. Sammy started training Tuesday for a nurse.

Lacrosse: Harold Gwyn and his Newmarket lacrosse buddies are marking time right now. They wait word from headquarters as to their play-off opposition. It's likely to be Maple. Lake Simcoe finals, third game at Mount Albert tonight. Hope must win to stay in.

Mount Albert is riding high in the Lake Simcoe softball finals. Murray Robert's lads now have two victories nailed down. They need one more, one in the next three that is, to be champs once again. Whatever it was that happened to Hope since the pay-off series started hasn't been good. Hope, we can say without contradiction, will be out tonight to get back in the hunt. They have their hands full but don't sell them short just yet.

Friday's fixture at Sharon, except for one innings, was a honey. In that innings Mount Albert came to life at the plate for seven runs, enough to put game away. Catcher Ross Draper, taking a healthy cut at the old apple, started it off and ended the scoring with his second two-bagger of the frame. Kelly Case's double and Judd Rutledge's home run swat were the big run producers. At that most of the damage was done with two out.

There usually potent swingers from Hope were silenced by Ken "Red" Mitchell who allowed only six hits, three of the six coming in that first frame when Hope opened their scoring. They added another in the fourth on a walk to Doug. Eves and Cliff Ward's double. Ward's free pass in the seventh and Lon Ganton's solid triple plated their third and final tally. Lon Ganton led his mates at the bat with a pair of safeties.

Mount Albert tallied single runs in the first, Hal. Watts' triple sending the first home. They counted another in the second on Judd Rutledge's bingle. Don Glover, Hope's winging south-paw, had trouble grasping the wet ball. It rained just before game time.

Tuesday evening, the series moved over to the Mount. Ken "Red" Mitchell showed he had enjoyed the long weekend for he proceeded to shut out Hope 5-0, with but three hits. In fact only six Hope swingers got on the base-paths. It was a neat pitching effort. Only once did Hope threaten to break the string of goose eggs, and that was in the sixth when Bruce Townley dished out a hit, his second of the fray, followed by Floyd Breen's single over second. Those two runners died on base-paths.

Mount Albert wasted no time in stepping into the lead. They put over three markers in the first on a walk, an error, two singles, and Hal. Watts' three-bagger. The Mount's fourth and fifth runs on the way to victory came in the last of the sixth. They put together three errors and a single by Charlie Green for those two runs.

Ken Mitchell didn't do bad by himself at the plate either for he had a pair of hits to lead his team on the offensive.

Copacos Ousted, Ladies Wait Finals

Newmarket Ladies are going to give you some more softball. They made the Barrie and district finals at the Stuart Scott school diamond Tuesday evening. In a thrilling contest, "a best of the season," they nosed out Copacos 2-1. It was the third and deciding battle of their semi-final series. The teams didn't waste any time as they swished through their seven innings stint in less than 45 minutes. They now play the winner of Midland-Valley's series.

In the fifth the totals came from behind a one-run deficit to put across two-game winning runs. Second sacker Phyl. McInnis chalked up the first after getting on the base on an error, a drive that got away from the Barrie outfielder. Lois Blight came through then with the first Newmarket hit of the game, both runners moving up a station. Phyl. scampered home on Marg Arnold's infield roller for run No. One. Mona Dean then stepped in to punch out a hit—a blow that cashed in Lois Blight with the game winning tally. That wiped out the one run lead built up by Barrie in the second frame. The lone Barrie run came by an infield bobbie and catcher Anne Miller's hit.

The contest turned out to be quite a pitcher's battle. Edith Hare of the visitors limited our gals to three hits and had a no-hitter in hand until the fifth. Betty VanZant pitched one of her best games and was a little more generous with the base-hits, allowing eight.

The fielding on both sides was really "out of this world." Mona Dean, Lois Manning, back in centre-field once again, Mary Ellen McInnis, and Phyl. McInnis and Betty VanZant, all come in for their share of the fielding glory. Second sacker Gibson, M. Ruddock, J. LeGond, C. Hopkinson, J. Hisey, T. Hazel Lang, as well as leading

Craddock's Ramblers Win Specialty Honors

Craddock's Ramblers are the unofficial champions of the Office Specialty softball wars. They made themselves the wearers of the crown with a hefty batting display last Friday when they romped home in front of Robinson's Rockets 19-7.

Lloyd "Vander" Preston hurled a neat ball game to lead his team to victory. When his trusty right arm showed signs of weakening in the fifth, Coach Craddock, after consulting with his ace-receiver, Harry Bong, rushed in his stop-em-dead tosser, Gord Shier. Gord did just that to halt the Rockets at one run and the game was in the bag.

Long John Hisey tried to slow ball the Ramblers to death but didn't have any success. Those two Harry's, Bong and Pepplatt, got in their holiday travelling early with five trips around the sacks to lead the winners. Hall the champs: L. Blunt, P. Myers, H. Bong, P. Neufeld, A. Rae, L. Waller, H. Pepplatt, G. Shier, L. Preston; runners-up: G. Wallace, D. Gibson, M. Ruddock, J. LeGond, C. Hopkinson, J. Hisey, T. Williams, M. Price, G. Close.

HANDS AT WORK... for ONTARIO

LEARNING MACHINE ASSEMBLY

ONTARIO'S products are desired and purchased by people all over the world and the capacity to produce such goods largely determines the economic welfare of every man, woman and child within her borders. Because the sale of every article produced in Ontario brings valuable dollars into this Province, we all are more assured of job security... and we and our children can have more of the better things in life. But to produce such goods in sufficient quantities, skilled labour is vital. That is why every single one of us should be glad that war veterans are constantly being trained to provide the skilled hands so needed by industry. They receive ON THE JOB training under expert instructors in our Ontario factories.

This training, provided through the co-operation of the Department of Veterans' Affairs, the Federal Department of Labour and the Ontario Department of Education, starts the veteran on the road to skilled craftsmanship. In assembling business machines, for example, veterans must have a thorough knowledge of electricity and must learn to perform intricate work on precision machines having thousands of separate parts. These Canadian-made business machines are sold in all parts of the world, creating new wealth for Canada and Ontario. Therefore every effort of these newly skilled veterans helps to make Ontario a finer place in which to live and contributes to the welfare and happiness of all her citizens.

THE BREWING INDUSTRY (ONTARIO)

MACHINE ASSEMBLY

John N. West, 25, of Toronto, a Royal Canadian Navy veteran, is shown here making an adjustment to one of the 10,000 parts in a business machine designed for a New Zealand firm.

Various types of business machines are produced in Ontario factories. Because of their intricate mechanism it is essential that these machines be checked by expert craftsmen at every stage of their production.
